The Drapers Company is one of only a handful of Guilds within the UK that has occupied its original Hall from the 16th century.

Shrewsbury Drapers Company is a long-established Guild which was granted a royal charter in 1462 and was historically responsible for the importation of unfinished Welsh cloth into England. The Guild has been running almshouses continuously since 1444.

Whilst proud of its history as a Guild, the modern Shrewsbury Drapers Company is an active, volunteering organisation whose members participate in its principal objectives of preserving their heritage, providing almshouses and furthering education in textiles by running an annual competition for students and adults.

The Guild is very conscious of the historical background and works to preserve two important buildings in Shrewsbury – Drapers Hall and Hospital of the Holy Cross adjacent to the Abbey Church in Abbey Foregate.
